EXPERIENCE

Director of Operations, Midwest, Great Lakes Provision Company

since 2024; three distribution centres

Site Manager, Bedford Park, Great Lakes Provision Company

2021 to 2024

- The contract settled at 2.5% with a rotating weekend bid. No strike. Voluntary attrition among under-one-year staff fell from 48% to 26% over the following year, which was the thing that actually mattered to the sites' cost. (share of regional volume at Bedford Park 60%; weekend shifts worked by under-one-year staff 14 of 23; settlement 2.5%; attrition before 48%; attrition after 26%; sessions he said nothing 2)
- Every case was accounted for by Sunday evening. No illnesses were reported. Nine customers thanked the company in writing and two left anyway. The written process he produced has been used twice since, both times without him. (cases shipped about 14,000; restaurants affected 340; extra cases he pulled about 3,000; hours to trace them about 9; customers who left 2; times the process has been used since 2)
- Accuracy recovered in nine days. The site lost about $240,000 in credits and expedited freight. He was still given the site manager role two years later, and his VP has said the written admission is why. (pre-go-live checks failed 2 of 4; orders a day 420; orders going out wrong about 1 in 14; days to recover 9; days on paper picking 4; cost in credits and freight about $240,000)
- The site closed in November 2025. Nineteen were placed internally, about twenty found work locally within six months, and he does not know about the rest, which he says plainly. The region's cost per case fell about 7%. (utilisation at Rockford 40%; annual loss about $2.1 million; jobs 54; notice given 9 months; cost of the extra notice about $600,000; placed at other sites 19; cost per case improvement about 7%)
